Job finding services are directed towards preparing individuals for and obtaining placement in competitive jobs of choice. Services include interview skill training, resume preparation, Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefits counseling and job searching.

Job support service is a periodic follow-up with individuals and their employers to support them in maintaining competitive jobs in their community through continued training.

Prevocational services develop skills for placement in vocational programs and ultimately into competitive employment by focusing on competitive work traits and training. This service can be provided as occupational training which focuses on a specific job and includes personal and work adjustment training, and work-related evaluations which use activities, observations and testing to determine appropriate job placement.

Community Habilitation/Transitional Employment

Home and Community Habilitation is designed to support participants in accessing and using community resources including transportation and activities of community life, developing and maintaining financial responsibility, and participating in community groups including volunteering.

Transitional work services offer work experience in a real work environment that is integrated and supervised. These environments are often known as mobile work force, work station in industry, affirmative industry and enclave.

Licensed Day Habilitation/Adult Day Services

Licensed Day Habilitation supports individuals with supervision, support and training in self-care, communication, and socialization. Areas of focus include mobility, relationship development, and community resources. This also includes Older Adult Day services

Alternative Services is a very different type of day option, one that combines career exploration with hands-on service learning (volunteer work.) Each person coming to this program participates in a person-centered community plan, where we learn about his or her interests, skills, strengths and support needs. From there, we schedule community volunteer opportunities that match what we learned in the community plan, focusing on supporting our participants in acquiring, retaining, and improving self-help, socialization and adaptive skills. During classes at the program, participants who are interested are given a chance to express themselves creatively through arts and various crafts, which our staff supports them to sell in the community. The staff to participant ratio is 1 to 3.
