Colonial Camp Fun at the Wentz Farmstead

Monday, June 24, 2013 through Friday, June 28, 2013 from 9:00AM-2:00PM

Worcester, PA (June 18, 2013) – Looking for an activity that is both fun and educational for the kids this summer? Then look no further than the Colonial Camp program offered at the historic Peter Wentz Farmstead starting the week of June 24, 2013. Camp runs from 9:00AM-2:00PM each day with lots of hands-on activities appropriate for students who will be entering 4th through 6th grade in the Fall.

Colonial Camp will interest students who enjoy history, science, and arts and crafts, or those just looking to spend a fun week with friends. Activities include woodworking, pottery, nature walks, fireplace cooking, sewing, beekeeping, Native American lore, quill penmanship, and much more. Campers will spend a busy week learning from skilled craftspeople, making new friends, and discovering history. The week will end with a banquet for the children, followed by an auction that friends and family are encouraged to attend.

What better way to start summer break? The program will take place at the Farmstead, located just off of Route 73/Skipack Pike, east of the intersection with Route 363/Valley Forge Road. The registration fee of $135 includes all activities plus lunch on Friday. Call today to reserve a spot as space is very limited!
