FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Noah Marlier Sworn In as Montgomery County Prothonotary

Noah Marlier was sworn in on January 6, 2020, as the Montgomery County Prothonotary. Noah has dedicated his life to serving his community, at both local and global levels. After teaching United States history to public school students in Virginia, Noah joined the Peace Corps and taught for more than two years in Malawi, Africa. A graduate of Rutgers Law School, Noah served as a Montgomery County Assistant District Attorney where he prosecuted cases involving, among other offenses, sexual assaults and economic crimes against the elderly. Noah has practiced municipal law for the past six years and has represented townships and school districts throughout Montgomery County.

As Prothonotary, Noah is committed to running the office effectively and efficiently, with an emphasis on fiscal responsibility and the streamlining of inter-office processes that save money for the County and its residents. Noah is also committed to running the office ethically and compassionately, in particular by advocating for those most vulnerable in our community. The office of the Prothonotary accepts applications for protections from abuse (restraining orders), and Noah is working to ensure that survivors of domestic violence receive the help and support they need.

A native and resident of Montgomery County, Noah and his wife have two young sons.

Lauren Tilger-Halbom is First Deputy of the office of the Prothonotary as of January 6, 2020. A transplant from Seattle, Lauren has lived in Pennsylvania for almost ten years. She earned her doctorate from Penn State University and previously served the public as the Fiscal Administration and Operations Deputy for the Montgomery County Recorder of Deeds. Lauren, her husband, and their cat live in Worcester.

Hilary Fuelleborn is the Solicitor for the office of the Prothonotary as of January 6, 2020. Hilary graduated from Emory Law School and practices throughout Montgomery County. Her practice focuses on taxation, real estate, small business representation, and estate planning for individuals and families. Hilary and her husband have three children and reside in Jenkintown.
