Sergeant Opelski left his home the morning of September 13th, 1998 as if it were just like any other day. But we must remember that any day for a Police Officer still means facing the dangers that lay just around the corner. Sergeant Opelski's plaque will stand as a reminder of those dangers, whether they be in or outside of the Police Department, Officers will enter and be reminded of Sergeant Opelski's sacrifice. He will be remembered as an outstanding law enforcement official, and a tremendous husband, father, son and brother."
